NOT GUILTY OF OPEN CUTOOT.

out open, which would give the driver a chance to operate the foot throttle, also that the hand throttle could be used if one preferred to get his power that way.

E. L. Hildreth, printer, was called by the defense. He often had seen Mr. Childs drive past the witness's house on Ames hill and noticed that the car was very noisy on second speed and still more noisy with the cutoff open. He said Mr. Childs used to open the cutoff, when he first owned the car, but had not known of his opening the cutoff in the past three years.

Major Childs was then called by Attorney Schwenk. He said he came home from Ames hill about 10:30 o'clock the morning of August 7. He remembered the date because it was the day of the death of his brother-in-law, Col. Kittredge Haskins, which occurred that morning. He said he left his car standing in front of the Masonic temple. He told of working at his office, and accounted for the time all that day, saying that a little after 5 o'clock he left his office, got into his car in front of the temple, drove south to Main and High street junction, where he turned the car around, going thence to the Haskins residence, where he remained until after 6 o'clock. From there he said he drove across the common and to Ames hill. He said that at no time during the day was the car south of the Main and High streets junction, and that on that day he did not drive up the Main street hill. Mr. Childs said that the cutoff on his car was designed to determine the position of the cylinders. When he first bought the car, he said, he occasionally opened the cutoff, but not since then. He said he suggested to the village commissioners that an ordinance against opening cutoffs be adopted and that since it was adopted he had not opened the one on his car. He said that his car was very noisy on second speed and that he had tried to have the trouble remedied but without success. With his car, he said, the open cutoff retarded the speed rather than accelerated it. On cross-examination he stated that there was a distinct difference in the sound of second speed and an open cutoff, but that it was not very noticeable in the 1912 Cadillac.

The defense rested at this point and Judge Barber announced a recess for dinner until 1:30, when the arguments would be made.

The following named men composed the jury: Merton Clark, Worthy G. Worden, James Thayer, Emory Evans and Roy Ingram of Guilford; George W. Fisher, Frank O. Downs, William W. Burnett and D. R. Miller of Dummerston; John L. Johnson and Walter M. Robbins of Brattleboro; C. D. Dalrymple of Marlboro.

The Really Important Thing.

Aged Suitor—It is true that I am considerably older than you, but a man is as young as he feels, you know, and—Miss Port—Oh, that doesn't matter. What I want to know is if you are as rich as you look.—Boston Transcript.
